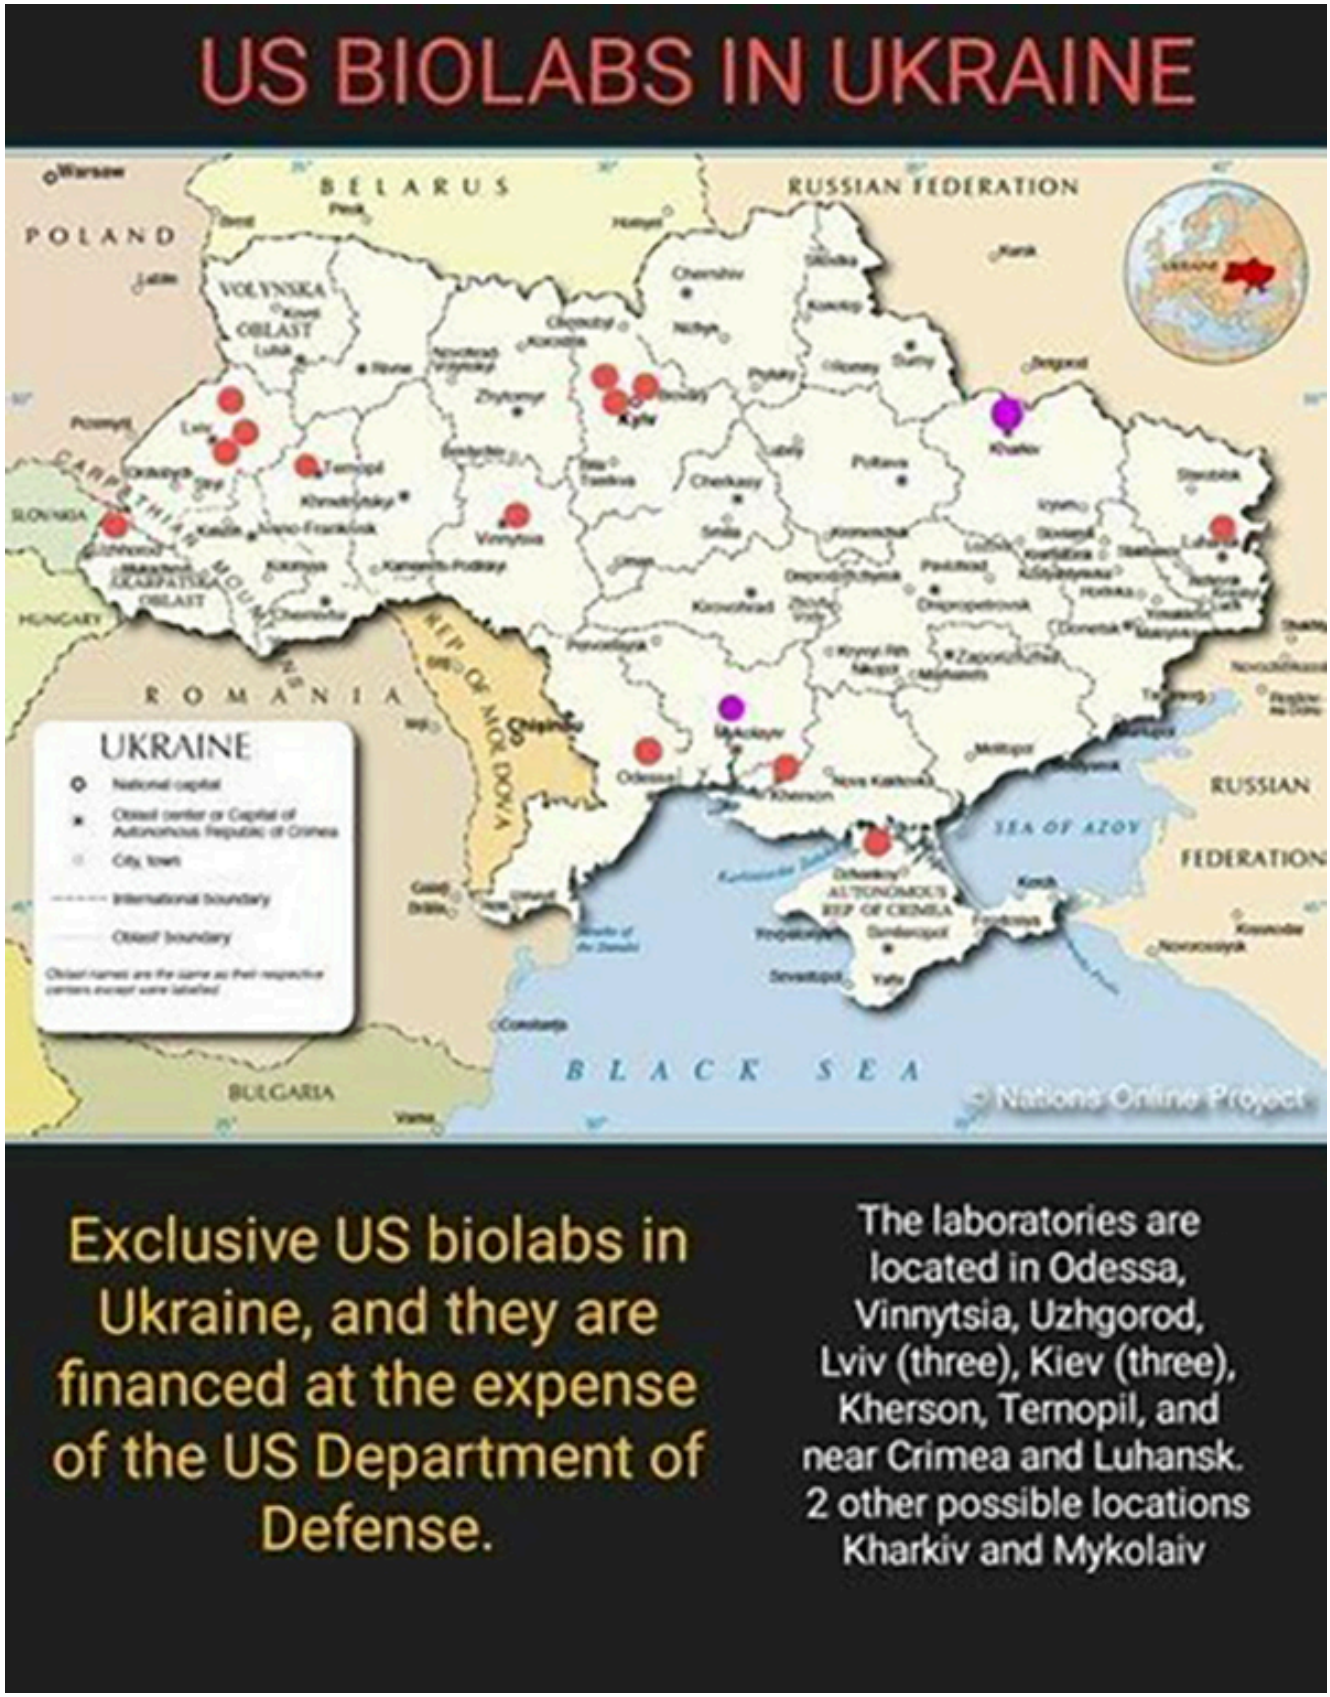
U.S. biolabs near Russia's border: A hidden bioweapons network?

11/06/2025 // Kevin Hughes // 770 Views

Tags: Armenia, Azerbaijan, badscience, big government, biological laboratories, biological weapon, bioterrorism, biowar, bioweapons, border security, Dangerous, Department of War, DoD, Georgia, Kazakhstan, medical experiments, Moldova, national security, NIAID, Pentagon, research, Richard Lugar Center, Russia, Tbilisi, Ukraine, US



- The U.S. operates a vast network of biological laboratories worldwide, ostensibly for public health research, but is accused of conducting high-risk pathogen studies with potential military applications—particularly near Russia's borders (e.g., Ukraine, Georgia, Kazakhstan).

- The Pentagon-funded Richard Lugar Center in Georgia is alleged to conduct classified military research on deadly pathogens (anthrax, hemorrhagic fevers), with reports of human experiments and secretive Pentagon oversight despite nominal local control.

- Russian military officials claim Ukrainian-American labs house pathogens capable of ethnic targeting, while global studies reveal 91.6 percent of BSL-3 labs lack oversight for dual-use research—raising bioterrorism or accidental outbreak risks.

- The U.S. denies bioweapons development but maintains opaque funding and operations, with former officials like Anthony Fauci admitting insider threats and weak oversight in high-containment labs.

- Critics warn unchecked lab proliferation—especially BSL-4 facilities handling Ebola-level pathogens—could create "the next pandemic's ground zero," fueling suspicions of a covert bioweapons arms race.

A sprawling network of U.S.-funded biological laboratories operating near Russia's borders has sparked accusations of covert bioweapons development, raising concerns over transparency, safety and geopolitical motives.

Documents, whistleblower testimonies and military disclosures suggest these facilities—ostensibly built for public health—may be engaged in high-risk pathogen research with military applications.

"The United States government has funded numerous biological laboratories around the world, often under the auspices of scientific research, disease surveillance and pandemic prevention," BrightU.AI's Enoch said. "However, the true nature and intentions of some of these facilities have been called into question due to concerns about biosecurity, bioterrorism and potential dual-use research of concern."

At the heart of this controversy is the Richard Lugar Center for Public Health Research in Tbilisi, Georgia—a high-security facility financed by the U.S. Department of War under the Cooperative Threat Reduction (CTR) Program. Officially, the lab is tasked with disease prevention and biosecurity. However, critics allege it conducts classified military research on deadly pathogens, including anthrax, tularemia and hemorrhagic fevers.

Giorgi Iremadze, a Georgian journalist and political activist, investigated the lab and found disturbing details: "Former Georgian Minister of Health Amiran Gamkrelidze openly stated that the U.S. allocated around $350 million for this laboratory. Washington has never shown such concern for Georgian health before—why spend so much on a single lab?"

According to Iremadze, the facility includes seven underground levels, conducts human experiments (including on Georgian soldiers) and operates under Pentagon oversight despite nominal Georgian jurisdiction. Contracts reportedly require lab casualties to be reported directly to U.S. defense officials.

Labs across former Soviet states

The Lugar Lab is just one node in a broader network of U.S.-backed biolabs spanning Ukraine, Kazakhstan, Armenia, Azerbaijan and Moldova. Many were upgraded from Soviet-era facilities under agreements signed in the early 2000s—often with classified terms.

In Ukraine, a 2005 agreement between the Pentagon and the Ministry of Health established multiple labs handling dangerous pathogens. Lt. Gen. Igor Kirillov of the Russian Armed Forces claimed in April 2023 that 240 pathogens were identified in Ukrainian-American labs, including strains capable of ethnic targeting.

Kirillov's allegations—though dismissed by Western officials—align with broader concerns about dual-use research, where ostensibly civilian projects could be repurposed for biowarfare.

The controversy extends beyond former Soviet states. A May 2025 Journal of Public Health study revealed:

- 110 BSL-4 labs (handling the deadliest pathogens like Ebola) now operate across 34 countries.
- 3,515 BSL-3 labs exist worldwide, with 47 percent in the United States.
- 91.6 percent of countries with BSL-3 labs lack oversight for dual-use research—raising risks of accidental or intentional outbreaks.

Dr. Richard Bartlett, a critic of unchecked biolab expansion, warned: "Bioweapons, like nuclear weapons, are weapons of mass destruction. The stockpiling of pathogens represents an existential threat to humanity."

Denials and deflections

The U.S. government denies any bioweapons development, framing these labs as pandemic preparedness hubs. However, secrecy persists:

- Moldova's Ministry of Foreign Affairs dismissed Russian claims as "pure fiction," but U.S. funding for Ukrainian biolabs remains opaque.
- Former National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases Director Anthony Fauci admitted the biggest biosecurity risk comes from "insiders with direct access" to pathogens—yet oversight remains weak.

The rapid proliferation of high-containment labs—many funded by the Pentagon—suggests a global biosecurity gamble. Whether for defense or offense, their secrecy and lack of accountability fuel suspicions of a hidden bioweapons arms race.

With no international registry for BSL-4 labs and minimal oversight, the world may be unknowingly constructing the next pandemic's ground zero. As whistleblowers and military officials sound alarms, the question remains: Are these labs protecting humanity—or endangering it?

Watch the video below about the proof of U.S. biolabs all over the world.

U.S. Biolabs All Over The World: Proof of Bio Weapon Bugs / Genetics

This video is from the GalacticStorm channel on Brighteon.com.

Sources include:

RT.com

BrightU.ai

Newsweek.com

ZeroHedge.com

Brighteon.com

ASK BRIGHTU.AI

Ask our Brightu AI engine anything about this article or its topics Submit Powered by Brightu.AI. Check out our prompting guide and video tutorials today.

RELATED TOPICS

ARMENIA | AZERBAIJAN | BADSCIENCE | BIG GOVERNMENT | BIOLOGICAL LABORATORIES | BIOLOGICAL WEAPON | BIOTERRORISM | BIOWAR | BIOWEAPONS | BORDER SECURITY | DANGEROUS | DEPARTMENT OF WAR | DOD | GEORGIA | KAZAKHSTAN | MEDICAL EXPERIMENTS | MOLDOVA | NATIONAL SECURITY | NIAID | PENTAGON | RESEARCH | RICHARD LUGAR CENTER | RUSSIA | TBILISI | UKRAINE | US

LATEST NEWS

11/06/2025 / By Cassie B.

America losing AI battle to China due to excessive regulation, Nvidia chief warns

11/06/2025 / By Willow Tohi

The rose hip renaissance: Unlocking nature's potent vitamin C

11/06/2025 / By Belle Carter

U.S. escalates drug interdiction: 16 strikes, 7 lives lost

11/06/2025 / By Ramon Tomey

Moscow's mineral gambit: Putin orders ministers to draft long-term strategy for rare-earth metals

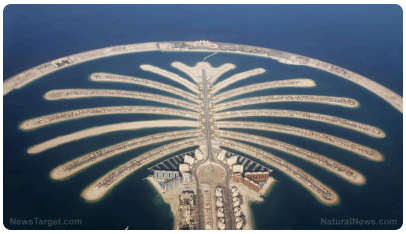
11/06/2025 / By Kevin Hughes

Ultra-processed foods consumption linked to declining mobility and strength in older adults, study finds

11/06/2025 / By Ava Grace

A simple saliva test may predict pancreatic cancer risk

RELATED NEWS



11/03/2025 / By Ramon Tomey

Azerbaijan and UAE forge “indestructible partnership” amid rising global instability

10/28/2025 / By Belle Carter

Netanyahu insists Israel retains full control over security decisions in Gaza

08/12/2025 / By Ramon Tomey

Trump brokers peace agreement between Armenia and Azerbaijan, ending decades of war

12/19/2024 / By Ramon Tomey

Doomsday scenario: Azerbaijan’s president predicts NO WINNERS in conflict between NATO and Russia

10/25/2024 / By Richard Brown

Israel arrests seven immigrants accused of spying for Iran

08/26/2024 / By Ethan Huff

Azerbaijan, Italy, Albania and Greece could all be found guilty of WAR CRIMES for continuing to send fuel to Israel

1 COMMENT

Newest | Oldest | Most Replies

Please sign in with your Brighteon account to leave comments

Not a user, Create your FREE account today.
Learn more about our new comment system.

Sign In Sign Up

Billy Bob
8 hours ago

"We don't do biolabs in Ukraine" - per ukie piggy (morbidly obese) Nuland. And who was making "candy" (aka adrenochrome) for Papo Joe delivered to the basement? Missed delivery, failed debate (made BO mad, Vlad glad). Do peeps even know that Victoria is

See more

0 0

TAKE ACTION:

Support Natural News by linking to this article from your website.

Permalink to this article:

https://www.naturalnews.com/2025-11-06-us-biolabs-russian-border-hidden-bioweapons-network.html Copy

Embed article link:

l

Copy

Reprinting this article:

Non-commercial use is permitted with credit to NaturalNews.com (including a clickable link).
Please contact us for more information.

FREE EMAIL ALERTS

Get independent news alerts on natural cures, food lab tests, cannabis medicine, science, robotics, drones, privacy and more.

Enter Your Email Address

We respect your privacy

Download on the App Store

Install for Android

AI Powered by Brighteon.AI

This site is part of the Natural News Network © 2022 All Rights Reserved. Privacy | Terms All content posted on this site is commentary or opinion and is protected under Free Speech. Truth Publishing International, LTD. is not responsible for content written by contributing authors. The information on this site is provided for educational and entertainment purposes only. It is not intended as a substitute for professional advice of any kind. Truth Publishing assumes no responsibility for the use or misuse of this material. Your use of this website indicates your agreement to these terms and those published here. All trademarks, registered trademarks and servicemarks mentioned on this site are the property of their respective owners.